

VaultSMART

Protect and prevent expensive email record recovery

VaultSMART email archiving securely and smartly retains all vital company communications, ensuring fast, simple, and reliable access to critical corporate emails into the future. This cost-effective feature works hand-in-hand as an add-on with FuseMail's award-winning email security and continuity solutions to provide you with peace of mind and yet another layer of security.

Why you need it

In the increasingly digitized world we live in, a business can send an immense amount of emails over a very short period of time. However, disruptions can occur when the valuable data contained in those communications is lost, mishandled, misused, or needed to support legal/business cases. Not being prepared for these incidents can end up costing you both in time and money.

No matter what the situation, email archiving has become the standard best practice of organizations both large and small. Once through the simple set-up process, VaultSMART immediately begins creating easily searchable and accessible records of all inbound and outbound email communications.
